THE TRANSFER CLINCHED.

Sale of the Cincinnati Ball Club to Milwaukee Approved by the Association. St. Louis, Aug. 18.—The inagnates of the American Association of Base-ball Clubs met here to-day. Immediately after calling the meeting to order. President Kramer stated the object of the meeting to be the consideration of Milwaukee's application for a franchise in the American Association. President Gillette made formal application for admission and a permanent franchise, wher eupon the following resolu-

Resolved, That the application of Milwaukee for membership in the Association be and is hereby accepted, with the express reservation that the Cincinnati Club be retained in full membership, the latter, however, to transfer its dates to Milwaukee for the residue of the present sea-

The Cincinnati club is certain to retain full power in the American Association. dent Gillette said that all obligations of the Cincinnati club would be accepted by the Milwaukee club. Regarding the extension of the schedule, it was decided by vote not to play any more games than the schedule calls for, as it would extend the season too far into the fall. Messrs. Kramer and Kauffman were authorized by the stockholders of the Cincinnati club to dispose of the use of the Cincinnati grounds as their judgment dictated. It was defi-nitely decided that a club would be placed in Cincinnati next year. The present grounds may be used, but that part is left open, as the prevailing opinion was that the interests of the Association would necessitate the securing of new grounds more accessible to the public. President Kramer tendered his resignation as pres-dent of the American Association, but, by unanimous vote of the Association, it was

Dr. Stuecky, in behalf of Louisville, stated that the club is in first-class financial condition, and that it will not only continue this season but for seasons to come, and that the chances are very bright for the future of the club. The meeting then adjourned.

The official disposition of the players was made as follows: Vaughn, Carney, Mains and Dwyer signed two-year contracts and Canavana one-year contract with the Cream City Club; Marr has an offer from Washington; Johnson and Whitney, from Pitts-burg, and Whitney also from Columbus and the New York League club. Seery will probably go to the Cincinnati League team, while Robinson is out of a job, though he may play with the Browns.

RETURN FROM MOUNT ORIZABA.

The Exploring Party That Set Out from Terre Haute Returns with Measurements.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Aug. 18 .- Dr. J. T. Scovell, Prof. W. S. Blatchley, of the Highschool; Prof. U. O. Cox, of the Mankato (Minn.) Normal School, and Professor Woolman, who left this city July 7, to measure Mount Orizaba, in Mexico, have returned, and every one of them was as brown as a well-baked bean. Mr. Henry S. Seaton, of the Indiana State University, who accompanied them on the trip, remained in Mexico, and will return before September. When the party reached Mexico they nad an opportunity to see the leading men of Mexico, as on the day following their arrival the Mexicans, in the City of Mexico, were commemorating the day of Benito Juarez's death, the deceased having President of Mexico and greatly beloved by the people. Leading men of the nation were seen in parade, and the music was first-class, Mexico being renowned for excellent music. When the time came to measure the height of Mount Orizaba, Dr. Scoveil went unaccompanied by any member of his party, taking only the guide with him. The guide made the steps by which he climbed, and Mr. Scovell could with diffi-culty keep near him. They ascended to a hight of fourteen thousand feet on the mountain, and at that point the snow was too soft for the levels to be placed firmly, and barometrical calculations had to be used in measuring the mountain's altitude. These calculations are not always reliable, because a slight variation in the barometer makes a great difference in altitude, but the barometrical measurements were compared and checked as well as the other measurements and the instruments were tested by the observatory instruments after the measurements had been taken.

On Aug. 3 the ascent was made again by

Dr. Scovell and his guide, to test the measurements made July 29, and the result of the two trips was that the approximate height of the mountain was found to be about 18,500 feet. Some triangulations remain to be made when the snow grows firmer, to make the measurement more exact. The best previous measurement of the mountain, which is the highest mountain in North America, was made by a German, who had not the advantage of the Mexican Observatory instruments by which to test his instruments, and who made the height about 18,270 feet. The en-tire mountain peak is owned by one man, and the guide who reigns above the snow line is the same person who was the foreman, or chief of the miners, in the sulphur mine that lies near the crater at the summit. The mine has been deserted since more accessible mines of sulphur have been found. The scientists who were in the party gathered many specimens of that region. The most striking specimen was a Mexican hat worn back by Dr. Scovell, being a broad brim and a high, sharp crown. Dr. Scovell gave the following brief description of their journey:

"We went from Terre Haute through St. Louis, Little Rock, Texarkans, Fort Worth, El Paso, Chihuahua, Zacatecas, Agnus, Calientes and Queretaro to the City of Mexico; thence east to Orizaba and Cordovs and return-over six thousand miles of travel in all through all sorts of country, from the swamps of Arkansas to the high deserts and mountains of Texas and Mex-We crossed baciendas that are measured by scores of miles, whose owners are millionaires, among people whose houses, furniture and other possessions, will not sell for $10. July 29 I made the ascent of Mount Orizaba, an old volcano supposed to be the highest peak in North America. The last four thousand feet are covered with snow and very steep, so that the guide had to cut steps for the whole distance. The climate at that elevation is very severe, and one continually wonders whether his lungs will fail or heart give out, or whether the sun will blind his eyes, and whether it will pay to go further. Only the strongest will enables one to keep on to the summit. The crater is about nine hundred feet long by seven hundred feet wide and about four hundred feet deep. It occupies the whole summit, and while it is partially filled with snow, the hot vapors melt the snow from large areas near the edge of the crater, whose vertical walls make it one of the most awe-inspiring sights I ever witnessed."

DEMOCRATIC ELECTION FRAUDS.

A Former District Attorney Recalls Some Notable Cases.

A. Oakey Hall, formerly United States district attorney and several times Mayor of New York, indulges in some reminiscences in regard to Democratic election frauds. They furnish an interesting glimpse of the methods by which the city, and consequently the State, were so often made Democratic. Mr. Hall savs:

I think I can say that election frauds have been kaleidoscopic-taking new hues and combinations as the years rolled around. Each year some old trick would be discovered by legislators, and a new turn bestowed by partisan manipulators would give new color and form. From 1810 to 1890 electioneering jugglery has tasted of the "progress of the age." In its early inception this jugglery was toward deceiving the voter as he was about to take and deposit his ballot. Next came the imported voter at a time when regulations as to residence were lax. There would then not only be colonization from ward to ward by Whise or Democrats in contested ward elections; but also for county and State pur-poses "colonization" from Hoboken, Newark, and even Philadelphia would be practiced. This, when registration laws came into vogue, was succeeded by the repeating system. In the one case several hundred men would be brought into the city. lodged together under one roof, and taken to the polls in a drove. Challenges would prove ineffectual, because the man who swears in his vote forces the election officials to receive it-the swearer taking the risk of perjury. In the other case a hundred men would be each furnished with any number of aliases and residences. One hundred men each voting a hundred times in divers parts of the city would create ten thousand votes. There was a time when, on the very day of election, a non-registered voter could then be added to the current and actually working register by making an affidavit of excuses-liness, absence in the country. traveling on business, and in many cases excuses dependent on the discretion of goodnatured or "fixed" inspectors for more

"watchers" statute. Early in the history of city voting the ballot was of a long ticket. Then the divisional ticket became invented. I knew one election where twelve ballot-boxes had to be used at every precinct, so numerous were the separate tickets. There is too little shuffling of inspectors and poll-clerks year by year.
Theoretically the police commissioners appoint the poll officers, but practically these are named and selected by political committees. An old saying was, "'Tis a wise son who knows his own father." This might be parodied into "'Tis a wise voter who is sure his ballot will be counted." MINOR CITY MATTERS. Local News Notes. A certificate of increased stock and ex-

Miss McLaen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown, of Detroit, the name of McLaen having been legally assumed in the New York courts about three years ago, when the young lady adopted the stage as her profession. Mr. and Mrs. New will sail for England to-morrow morning by the steamer City of Paris. They will visit Mr. New's father and family, returning to Indianapolis early in October

Mr. Holtzman said he would probably name the deputy to-day, but declined to tell who it would be. He also refused to name those asking for the appointment. John Kealing has been frequently mentioned for it, but he says no one had authority to do so. He does not anticipate that the deputyship will be offered to him, in view of his willingness to be the Democratic nominee next year for the office Mr. Holtzman holds.

DREADFUL SKIN DISEASE Afflicts a Well-Known Merchant, Itching and Burning Terrible, Doctors and All Remedies Fail.

Tries Cuticura, Relieved by the First Application, and Entirely Cured in Five Weeks.

About eighteen months ago a small speck appeared on my ankle: it resembled a fish scale; it became larger, and I consulted a physician who pronounced it psoriasis or monied disease, because it resembled money. I applied an ointment, but it spread until at last it covered almost my entire body. My suffering was something terrible, burning and itching sensation continually until it became almost mandarable. I suffered until it became almost unendurable. I suffered tortures, especially at night, and for two months came desperate. I would have given anything to be relieved of the itching sensation. I tried a number of remedies without any relief. I was requested to try Cutioura; this I did, and to my great surprise, I was relieved after the first application. I used the Cuticura, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Resolvent according to directions for about four or five weeks when I was entirely cured.
